Featured Chamber Member of the Month - November 2017

Marengo Tool & Die

Marengo Tool & Die Works was founded in 1946 through the partnership of Otto Tauck and Fred Struckmeier, Sr. The original building was only 10,000 square feet. The business mainly serviced tool and die work and machining in the early years. Since then the Company has expanded several times and now covers approximately 62,000 square feet.

In the mid 1950's Marengo Tool & Die built several special machines to mill serrations into channel nuts for a company based in Chicago. The result was the Company being introduced to the channel framing industry, which supplies commercial and industrial construction projects throughout the United States and Canada as well as other countries.

Through a network of companies that coordinate the channel framing business and the marketing of the products, channel framing materials are efficiently sold to the end users in the construction industry.

Marengo Tool & Die Works Inc. is a manufacturer of Channel Framing accessories (they do not Roll Channel) for the industry. They supply channel accessories to most of the major Channel Manufacturers in the United States and Canada. They do not import their products, they sell what they manufacture.

They also manufacture products for Non-Channel related companies. They are always happy to look into producing "Specials" for any of their customers. Marengo Tool & Die Works, Inc., offers a complete line of Channel Framing accessories.

Their products are available in Plain Finish, Hot Dip Galvanized, Electroplated (EG), Yellow Dichromate, Copper Plated, Type 304 Stainless Steel, Type 316 Stainless Steel (Pipe Clamps and Nuts). Their products can be supplied packaged or in bulk shipments.

Marengo Tool & Die Works, Inc. strive to supply their customers with a quality product in a timely manner, with their 25 employees. Their main goal is to provide our products at a competitive price while focusing on exceeding our customers expectations.
